“We asked Moss Designs to step in on an unfinished job from Buckstaff. The products they built included study carrels, tables, OPAC stations, children’s sloped tables and a self-checkout station. The quality was the same, they met our delivery schedule and the finishes matched. We couldn’t tell any difference.”

BUCKSTAFF

MOSS DESIGNS LTD.

continuing a 160 year tradition

About Us

Creating a new team from the old Buckstaff organization, the new company consists of experienced craftsmen and longterm employees of the original Buckstaff company. The new parent organization is Moss Designs Ltd., which is a woman owned business started by Buckstaff employees over 10 years ago. While we're a different firm from Buckstaff, we understand the importance of producing durable quality wood furniture made in America.

Beyond hiring experienced Buckstaff employees, we're looking at adding on and improving the Buckstaff experience:

- > We've purchased Buckstaff's furniture drawings, specification standards, engineered parts, patents and trademarks.
- > Acquired some of their operational furniture manufacturing equipment.
- > Currently, we're re-establishing long-time vendor relationships.
- > We use the same wood supplier and the same aged kiln dried wood species that Buckstaff was famous for.
- > Our finishing team employs the same processes that were used at Buckstaff. In fact, we purchased their wood staining and varnishing equipment to provide perfect matches.

Environmental Statement

The majority of our wood comes from Wisconsin lumber dealers. They strongly believe in long-term forest management and use certified forest experts in the tree selection process. They believe in working closely with land owners to help them keep forests sustainable. The wood they harvest is usually found less than 25 miles from their mill.

Buckstaff utilizes water based stains which reduces VOC emissions. Blanket wrapping, when feasible, eliminates packaging materials that end up as waste in landfills. When you order from Buckstaff you should feel comfortable knowing we take our environmental commitment seriously.
